DISTRICT IN or Americanism at heart. This young man is earnest, progressive and aggressive, when it comes to wrongdoing, and is capable in business. I seconded his nomination two years ago, and I now see no reason to change my mind. He is just as sweet as ever. First ward.

N. D. Corser, a veteran of the civil war, was named by John B. Moreton; Dr. H. D. Niles by Dr. La Mott; Eugene W. Kelly by Councilman Stewart; J. W. McKinney by S. P. Armstrong; Charles L. Sheeley by Mr. Settle.

Binghamites Are Heard From.

W. S. Dalton again got the floor and W. S. Dalton again got the floor and nominated F. E. Tiernay of Bingham. The Bingham delegation, which was seated on the stage, protested against Tiernay, shouting, "We don't wanthim." Bingham came to the convention pledged to Jerome Bougaurd of the canyon camp for commissioner, and having been promised this representation, they agreed not to enter the legislative contest. lative contest

Thomas Hobday nominated Henry H. Don; Mr. Mahan nominated H. S. McCann; Mr. Spears nominated A. G. Maguire.

H. B. Johnson, in a brief speech, named Elijah M. Baker of Union, Mr. Johnson said his candidate was an Johnson said his candidate was an American in a community where it required nerve for a man to hold up his head and declare himself an American. Horace Dunbar nominated Henry Catrow. In placing his name before the convention Mr. Dunbar said that all the other walks of life were represented by the candidates named except the mining industry, which is one of the most important, and thus he asked for the nomination of Mr. Catrow.

This closed the nominations and the convention proceeded to ballot. The recording of the ballot occupied nearly an hour and a balf. Many complimentary votes were given, some to gentle-ary votes were given, some to gentle-men who were not placed in nomination.

At this stage Mr. Critchlow returned to the stage and took up the duties of his office.

The ballot resulted in the selection of the following: C. J. Crabtree, 343; Henry Catrow, 370; A. S. Martin, 307; J. W. McKinney, 325; H. S. McCann, 394; J. N. Spalding, 434; N. D. Corser, 321; E. W. Kelly, 329; Arthur A. Sweet, 422; W. W. Little, 309.

Following are details of the ballot:

Spalding, cited the fact that the American party, without being pledged in its platform to do so, had raised the wages of the workingmen in Salt Lake. Mr. Spalding, he said, was the man who had organized labor in Salt Lake City. At the conclusion of the ballot a FIRST BALLOT FOR COMMISSIONER motion was made that the ten receiving the highest vote be declared the nominces, and the motion was adopted. On motion, the rules were suspended and while the secretaries tallied the vote on representatives, nominations were made for county commissioners. County Commissioners.

C. S. Pulver was first recognized and nominated Charles D. Rooklidge. Mr. Mr. Joseph Cohen introduced some "sweetest" into the proceedings when nominating Arthur A. Sweet. He said: "Il desire to place in nomination for representative in the lower house a young man who has the highest ideals of Americanism at heart. This young tive office, but an appointive one. He had served on the board of public works successfully and with benefit to the city, with the same capacity he would occupy the position of county commissioner.

Ben Rives nominated Frank A. Swenson. He said that his candidate had been honored by the party and had been defeated. His success had not made him hig headed, nor his defeat a bolter—he was always an American.

The announcement of Swenson's name brought out a considerable demonstration from the delegates.

There were no further nominations and the convention proceeded to ballot with the following result: Swenson, 434; Edmunds, 125.

county, M. Fitzpatrick, I have but two minutes to present a few facts concerning this man, it would take me an hour to tell you his good qualities. He is not a boy. He is an experienced man. He has had two years' experienced schooling as a deputy sheriff in the Black Hills and has been connected with the Rio Grande railroad as superintendent of construction. He came to Utah thirteen years ago and has invested his means in Salt Lake City."

P. J. Daly placed in nomination A. J. Charon. "In the time allotted to me," he said, "I cannot depict, or attempt to depict or portray, the good qualities and virtues of my nominee. However, I can say to you that he is, and always has been, a thorough American, a worker in the ranks and one who, night or day, is always found helping the cause of Americanism. If you shall nominate him, which I believe you will, and if he shall be elected, you will find, and I pledge you, that he will not prostitute the office of sheriff for partisan ends. He will not enter into any conspiracy with the criminal element. He will acquit himself creditably in the office. He will do honor to the party, and if you name him I pledge you that he will be worthy. I take pleasure, at the request of a large number of delegates, and have the honor to present to you the name of A. J. Charon."

The names of nineteen gentlemen

The names of nineteen gentlemen were given to the convention for representatives in the lower house, and the contest was a most spirited one.

Judge George M. Goodwin was first recognized and named A. T. Moon. In doing so Judge Goodwin congratulated the American party on its magnificent convention. The time had passed, he said, when the American party was looked upon as a joke in this community. The party had grown from childhood through the four years of its existence, and this fall, if all indications do not fail, it will come in with a majority, a full-grown man. It was difficult for a new principle and party to come into existence, especially in this state. Men who had left the old parties with which they had been associated for years, and organized the American party were deserving of recognition, and thus he nominated A. T. Moon. party were deserving of recognition, and thus he nominated A. T. Moon. W. S. Dalton, in nominating J. N.
